L5 Report

Executive summary

Achieving OGMP 2.0 Gold Standard isn't quick — and it isn't simple. But it is achievable with the right plan, and the right technology partner.

For most companies it can take:

~19 months

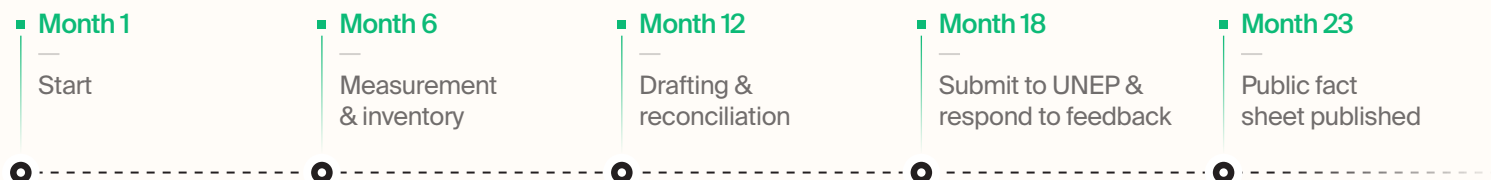

from start to submission and UNEP feedback

~23 months

from start to public recognition (publication of company Fact Sheet)

Roadmap

This roadmap breaks down what needs to happen, and when, across four critical phases.

Phase 1

Internal engagement

Timeline

Month 0-1

What happens

01. Define project goals and scope
02. Communicate expectations across business units
03. Assign project leads and secure resourcing

Phase 2

Prepare, measure, draft

Timeline

Month 1-12

What happens

01. Build your Bottom-Up inventory & confirm internal datasets
02. Plan and execute source and site-level measurements
03. Review mid-year progress and course-correct
04. Begin reconciliation and gap identification

This is where timelines often slip — especially if data is incomplete or measurement strategies evolve mid-year as data is reviewed.

Phase 3

Analyze, finalize, report

Timeline

Month 12-17

What happens

01. Develop company-specific emission factors
02. Create Level 4 inventory and perform full reconciliation
03. Draft and internally align your final report
04. Prepare materials for UNEP submission

Phase 4

Submit, respond and wait

Timeline

Month 17-23

What happens

01. Submit final report to UNEP (due annually by May 31st)
02. Receive feedback and address comments
03. Your score appears on UNEP's annual public fact sheet
04. Gold status becomes publicly visible

There is often a 4-month lag between submission and publication.
